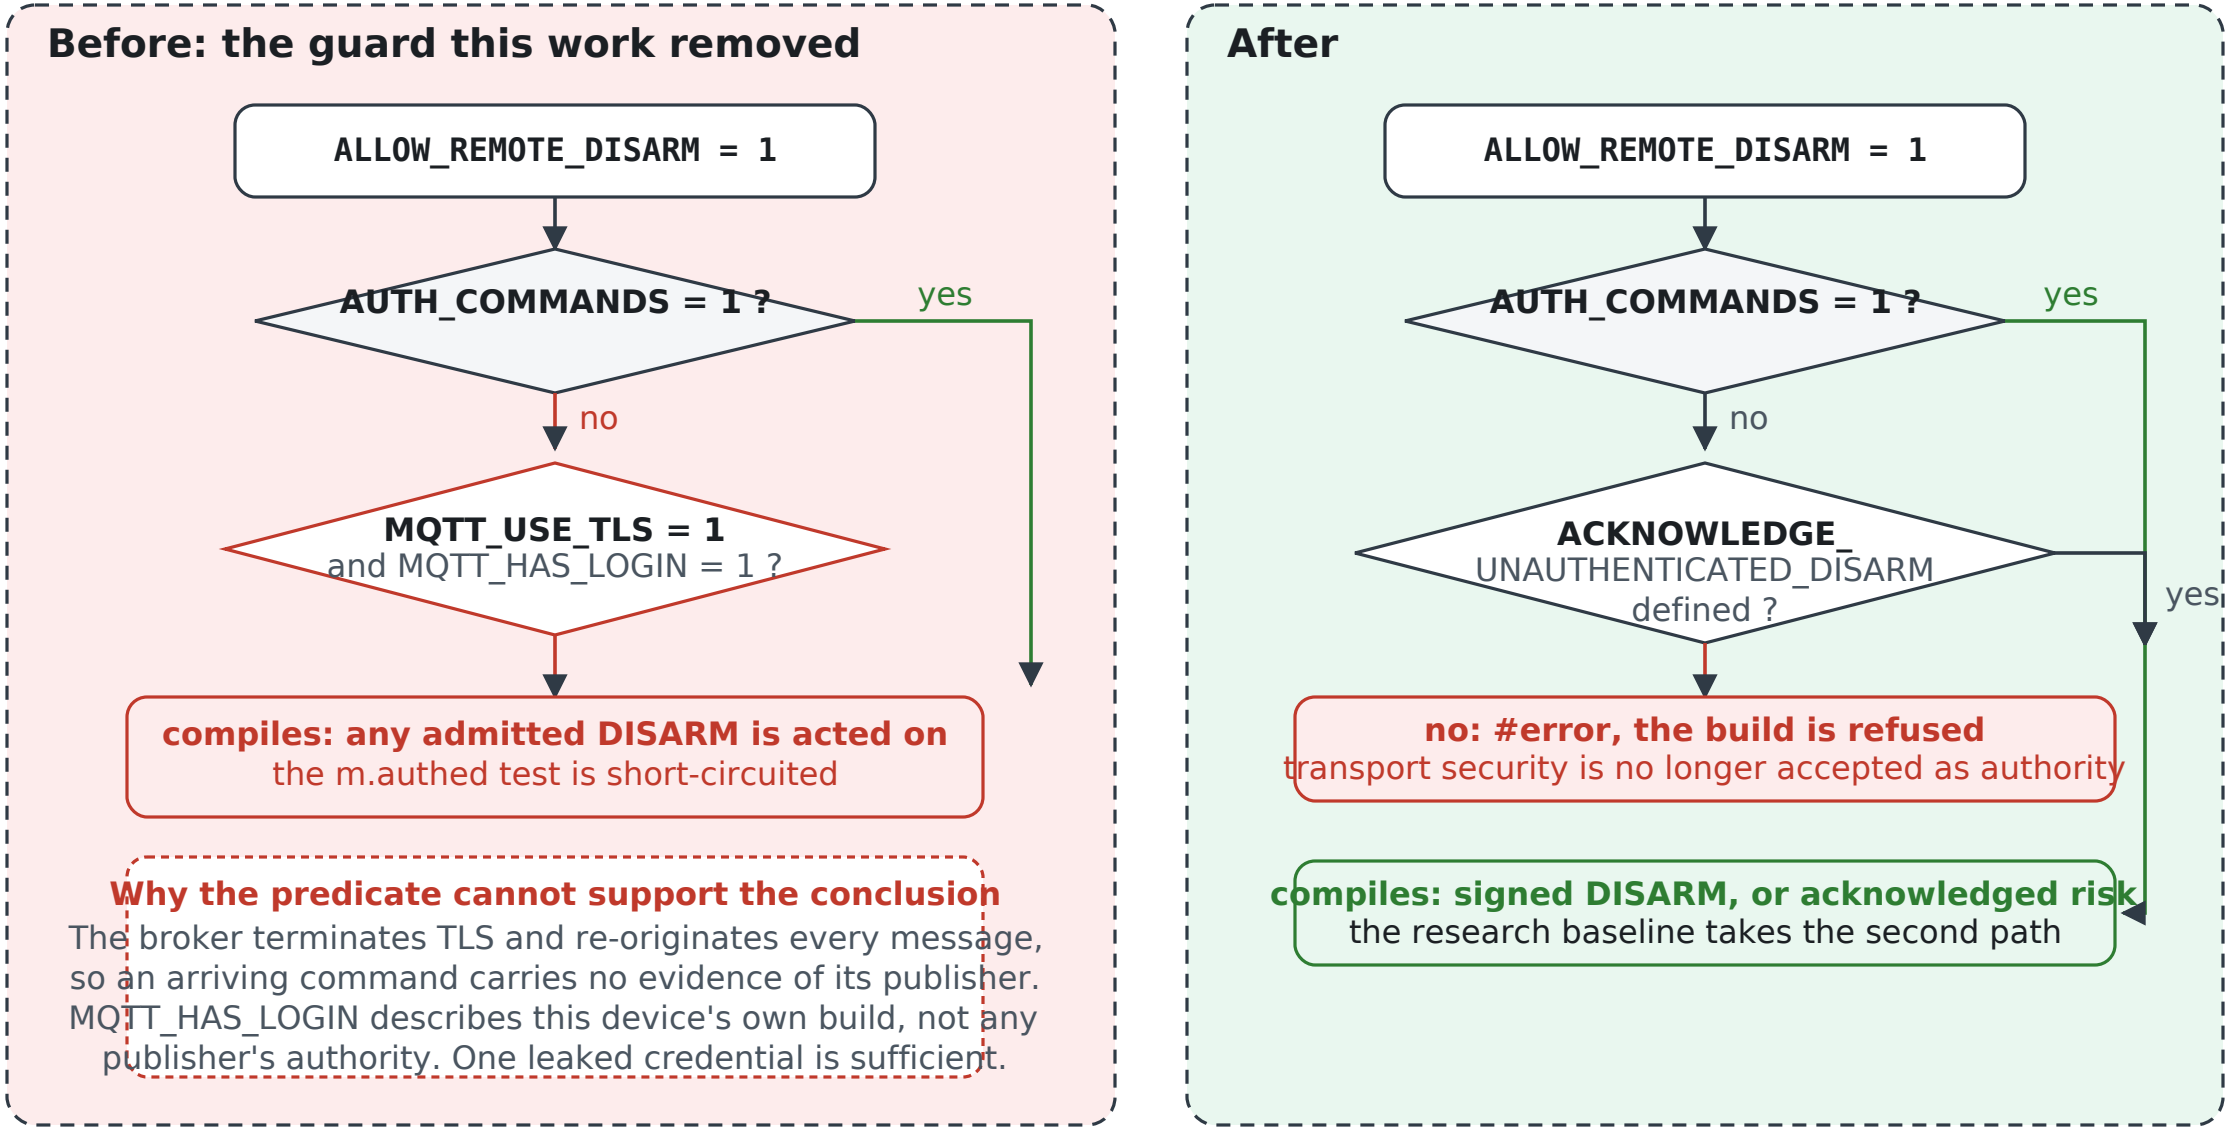
The compile guard, before and after


A build condition is a security argument. This one asserted that transport security plus a broker login implies publisher authority.